maintenance employees of the Neibauer Bus Company of Bristol hinged today on a strike vote to be taken this afternoon by members of Local 282, Transport Workers Union, at the Auto Workers

The union has threatened to strike if the majority of members so vote. The management has steadfastly refused to budge in its decision to grant any wage increases. One spokesman for the company said today, "the situation is unchanged over the week-end." Edward W. Neibauer, president of the bus company, was quoted as remarking, "we're sitting tight, hoping the union will accept the same contract for another year. We can't afford any wage increases and you can't spend what you haven't

The union, through its president of the Bristol Local, James Gallagher, said the union would call a strike immediately if the members vote in the affirmative this afternoon. "Jitney" service will be inaugurated with bus drivers operating their private automobiles to provide emergency service here. No charge will be made for this serv ice, Gallagher said.

The union demands a 32-cent an hour incerase in wages, three weeks vacation for 10-year employees, one additional paid holi-

Following complaints of six residents of Tullytown that their health and property are menaced by the burning of refuse on dumps in the vicinity. Robert Graham, of Chalfont, Bucks county fire marshal, who received the complaints, announced he would confer with Tullytown Borough officials in an effort to eliminate the nuisance. His action was backed by John T. Steen, chief of the Tullytown Volunteer Fire Company who said he had issed a warning to the person believed responsible for the Steen reported that on June 24, a truck entered the property about 10 p. m. and emptied a 50 drum of oil on some smo waste. The area flared up, he and the blaze was visible for miles. Two fire trucks and 12 volunteers were called out to extinguish the fire. They remained at the scene for nearly two hours.

Graham said he would contact town Borough, and William Conca, borough selicitor, in a move to end the menace.
"This condition must be remedi-maintenance employees of the Neibauer Bus Company of Bristol hinged today on a strike vote to be taken this afternoon by members of Local 282, Transport Workers Union, at the Auto Workers

The union has threatened to strike if the majority of members so vote. The management has steadfastly refused to budge in its decision to grant any wage in-creases. One spokesman for the company said today, "the situation is unchanged over the week-end." Edward W. Neibauer, president of the bus company, was quoted as remarking, "we're sitting tight, hoping the union will accept the same contract for another year. We can't afford any wage increases and you can't spend what you haven't

The union, through its president of the Bristol Local, James Galla-gher, said the union would call a strike immediately if the members vote in the affirmative this afternoon. Couple Wed Sat.; Enroute to Florida

MORRISVILLE, June 29-An attractive wedding ceremony took place Saturday afternoon at the hour of two o'clock in First Presbyterian Church, when Miss Florence Helen Stackhouse, daughter of Mr. T. Russell Stackhouse, superintendent of Pennsbury Manor, and the late Mrs. Cora Stackhouse, became the bride of Mr. Herbert Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fowler, West Barrington, R. Is.

hTe Rev. Clifford G. Pollock, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Richard Evans provided organ selections and served as accompanist for Mr. William Cameron, Florence, N. J., who rendered several selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of white nylon lace and satin. The long nylon lace sleeves ended in a point over the hands. The gown, of nylon lace was scalloped at the illusion neckline; also scalloped where a band of satin joined it at the base of the skirt and edge of the train. The satin insert also continued half way up the front of the skirt and a band of satin at the bottom oft he skirt in the back, ending in a long train. The bride wore a single strand of pearls. The nylon net fingertip veil was attached to a bonnet effect headpiece trimmed in seed pearls. The briday slippers were white leather. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Attending the bride were Miss Jane Muchmore, Princeton, N. J., maid of honor, and Miss Sandra
